

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for providing an improved Internet camera is described. The method of keeping a refreshed image from a camera on a user's system comprises sending the image to the user's system and refreshing the 5 image when a refresh period has elapsed. The method further comprises decreasing a frequency of the refresh after a period of time.